ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The present invention aims to enable image attribute discrimination of an image indicative of compressed data, and hence correction processing on the image indicative of the compressed data. In attaining this aim, the compressed data are developed into a bit map by a method corresponding to the analysis results so that the correction processing will be performed on the bit map according to the identified attribute.